Meeting Needs, Bringing Hope, Sharing Love

OUR QUEEN:

Throughout her life, she has spoken openly about her strong faith and how this has helped guide and sustain her. Many of us have been greatly blessed and encouraged by The Queen's willingness to share her faith so publicly, and today, we share in the nation's grief at the passing of a great lady of passion and faith

Let's pray for The Queen's family at this time. They have lost their mother, their grandmother, their great-grandmother, and their friend. We thank God for her life and for all that she has done to raise awareness of many important causes. As we gather to remember and honour the great life of The Queen, I am reminded of the words of Jesus in Matthew 5 when He said 'Blessed are those who mourn for they shall be comforted'. We know that in times of loss and grief, the Lord is the Great Comforter, and He sustains those who turn to Him. Amen

SEPTEMBER 2022 Church Warden John Cox 02476.394802 Church Warden Vic Murray X.D

Elizabeth II, in full Elizabeth Alexandra Mary, (born April 21, 1926, London, Eng.-died Sept. 8, 2022, Balmoral Castle, Aberdeenshire, Scot.), Queen of the United from 1952 to 2022. She became presumptive when her uncle, Edward VIII, abdicated and her father became king as George VI. In 1947 she married Philip, duke of Edinburgh (1921–2021), with whom she had four children, including Charles, who succeeded her in 2022. She became gueen on her father's death in 1952. Increasingly aware of the modern role of the monarchy, she favoured simplicity in court life and took an informed interest in government business. In the 1990s the monarchy was troubled by the highly publicised marital difficulties of two of the queen's sons and the death of Diana, princess of Wales. In 2002 the queen's mother and sister died within two months of each other. Elizabeth became the longest-reigning monarch in British history in 2015, and she celebrated 70 years on the throne with a "Platinum Jubilee" in 2022.

May God bless our wonderful Queen who served us all and the rest of the world in her most prestigious ways. A very special lady who will always be remembered with love and affection.

During the Lying-in-State period, Her Majesty The Queen's closed coffin rests on a raised platform, which is called a catafalque, inside Westminster Hall in the Palace of Westminster (also known as the Houses of Parliament). Members of the public attending will file past the catafalque to pay their respects.

Her Majesty The Queen's Lying-in-State at the Palace of Westminster opens to the public at 5pm on Wednesday 14 September. It will be open 24 hours a day until it closes at 6.30am on Monday 19 September.

The BBC's red button service will provide a live feed from Westminster Hall and ITV and Sky will be running extensive coverage. An online book of condolence is also available for people to add personal messages.

If you wish to attend the Lying-in-State in person, please note that there will be a queue, which is expected to be very long. You will need to stand for many hours, possibly overnight, with very little opportunity to sit down as the queue will be continuously moving.

God has a plan for your future, and will grant you wisdom for the journey. Prayers Each day during September

The corgis are here waiting Our beloved Queen They need a good long walk And Lilibet my darling I've been longing just to talk Our brief separation

Felt like an eternity I'm happy you are here now Right where you should be

1926 - 2022

No shaking hands of strangers No more worldwide tours

We'll share eternity together With just my hand in yours

But you can stop now darling The nation was truly blessed Now it's just us forever You've truly earned your rest

The nation will be weeping They did love you so But we said goodbye together Sent a double rainbow

Through Heaven's Gate I'll lead you Such beauty you will find ... we will be with our prouds again; we will be an Side by side forever our parelles again; me will meet again. No more three steps behind

NATIONAL TRUST: If you are a member of the National Trust,

I'm writing to you with deep sadness to let you know about our arrangements for the coming days, as we mark the passing of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. At a number of properties across England, Wales and Northern Ireland, we have opened condolence books for visitors to sign. On Monday 19 September, for Her Majesty's State Funeral we will close all houses and gardens, shops and cafes. Pre-booked holiday cottages, coast and country car parks will remain open to guests and visitors.

Please do check our website before travelling.

It is difficult to put into words how much the Queen meant to people across our nations and around the world. Her Majesty has been a strong supporter of both the National Trust and the cause we serve. We were privileged to welcome her to National Trust places from Giants Causeway in Northern Ireland, to Runnymede, to mark the 800th anniversary of the sealing of Magna Carta. She welcomed National Trust supporters to Buckingham Palace with a garden party for our centenary, and we were honoured to plant and dedicate trees and ancient woodland to Her Majesty as part of the Queen's Green Canopy to mark her 70 years on the throne.

Our thoughts remain with the Royal Family at this sad time.

Dear All, Together with Bishops Christopher and John, we want to thank you for all that you are doing to serve you churches and communities. We know that the past few days have added additional work to already busy workloads. It is much appreciated, you are doing a great job.

Flags: Flags remain at half-mast until 8:00 am on Tuesday morning. They are then returned to full mast.

Bells: The Royal Family have requested that muffled bells to be tolled one hour prior to the funeral (i.e. from 10.00 am to 11:00 am).

Guidance about muffles and ringing muffled bells can be found here... https://cccbr.org.uk/guidance-note-operation-london-bridge/

Two-minute national silence We were expecting the two-minute silence to be at 11:00 am. However, the BBC and other media are now reporting that it will take place at the end of the service (at around 11:55 am)...Either way, bells must stop tolling at 11:00 am.,

Pop's Story No 37 Disciples

There was a gap of a month in the mission's itinerary and Pops was praying, asking the Lord how He wanted them to use that time. Friday morning, he had been praying and reading his bible as usual when a scripture in the Acts of the Apostles 'Jumped out at him'. In a vision Paul saw a man asking him 'To come over and help them' the man was from Macedonia (Acts ch 16v9). After breakfast because it was Friday Pops drove to the Christian Fellowship School to speak in their assembly. As usual he popped into the office to tell Daphne the school's secretary a beautiful Christian lady but someone that even Pops was careful not to mess with! "Ah, Dave I'm glad I caught you" immediately Pops was fourteen years old again and in the headmaster's study preparing for the worst, "I've had a letter from friends in Bulgaria" she continued, "Asking if I know anyone who could go over to help them with an evangelistic campaign this summer, I immediately thought of you". "Is Bulgaria kind of where old Macedonia used to be?" Pops asked, "Yes, it is Dave, well done". Pops had got his answer and a merit star from Daphne. Daphne had met her friends Ivan and Stella two years previously when she was smuggling bibles into Bulgaria before Perestroika, and Communism had still got a grip on the country. Every morning and evening she would train herself by walking to work and back with a rucksack full of books and two suitcases one in either hand also full of books. If she looked suspicious struggling with heavy suitcases full of bibles through customs she would certainly have been detained and the bibles confiscated but who was going to stop a sweet lady (she was over 60) excited to discover some of their lovely country. She also had to learn Cyrillic Script and memorise all the addresses of her contacts because in case of arrest she must not have any written information on her that would endanger her contacts. Pops can only remember one or two things now about the actual mission, like driving through what then was Yugoslavia and being surprised how clean and well-kept everything was , even the tractors seemed to be polished regularly (Tito was still in charge) compared to the rest of Eastern Europe, it was a pleasant surprise. The utter chaos at the Bulgarian Border, hundreds of trucks, cars and trailers all competing to scramble to get through a single gate and Terry Pop's friend with his family heroically trying to maneuver his car and caravan so he could remain close to the back of Pop's trailer who had all the documents and most important all the food. Driving through the suburbs of Sophia and looking at the endless regiments of shabby high rise flats and feeling sorry for the thousands of people who were living there and then mentioning that to Stella and Ivan who remarked that when they first drove through the same streets how incredibly happy they were because now they at last had got a home of their own. The Lord speaking one morning to Pops saying that evening the Lord was going to open the eyes of the blind. Pops mentioned that to the team during the prayer meeting and then he of course forgot all about it. At the end of the evening meeting when people were milling about, others being helped, and others being prayed for suddenly there was a shout from a corner of the marque and two sisters carrying a picture book came up to Pops and said "Look my sister can see, she was blind but now she can clearly see all the pictures in my book, she can see, she can see. "That was so wonderful". When the mission had finished there was a good number of new Christians but no one to look after them, Pops mentioned that to the team. Mark a young Irish man who Pops had only known for a few weeks with the mission for the first time immediately said "If you think I can do it, I will stay behind and do my best to pastor them". Pops was deeply impressed by this young man who was willing to give up everything he had back in the UK and live in a foreign country amongst people he as yet didn't know, another true disciple of Jesus

With kind permission of David Orange

The story of Ruth is a beautiful but sobering tale of a young woman with noone to cover her, other than her mother-in law. Naomi had no family of her own. She found herself in a strange land with unfamiliar people and met a man named Boaz, a distant relative of Naomi's and made her a part of the family. Today we gather with those we love, maybe we spread our family blanket out to include those who have no families, the lonely, and those wishing for someone to talk to. Perhaps in doing so, our family will grow far beyond its current borders to include a whole new set of members.

Lord, we know there are people who need family. Elderly people. Young people. People we can sweep under our wing. Show us when and how to spread the blanket to these people, to draw them into the fold. Amen.

THE SUNSHINE:

Sitting today in the sunshine,
That touched me with fingers of love,
I thought of the manifold blessings
God scatters on Earth, from above;
And they seemed, as I numbered them over,
Far more than we merit, or need,
And all that we lack are the Angels
To make earth a heaven indeed

The winter brings long, pleasant evenings,
The spring brings a promise of flowers
That summer breathes into fruition,
And autumn brings glad golden hours,
The woodlands re-echo with music
The moonbeams ensilver the sea;
There is sunlight and beauty about us,
And the world is as fair as can be.

But mortals are always complaining
Each one thinks his own a sad lot;
And forgetting the good things about him,
Good mourning for those he has not,
Instead of the star-spangled heavens,
We look on the dust at our feet;
We drain out the cup that is bitter,
Forgetting the one that is sweet.

We mourn o'er the thorn in the flower,
Forgetting its odour and bloom;
We pass by a garden of blossom
To weep o'er the dust of the tomb.
There are blessings unnumbered about us.
Like the leaves of the forest they grow;
And the fault is our own – not the Giver's –
That we have not an Eden below.

word 'harvest' comes from the Old English word hærfest meaning 'autumn', aptly the season for gathering the food of the land. This was a vital time of year, when success was a genuine matter of life or death. A prosperous harvest ensured that a community would be fed throughout the potentially barren winter months. It's therefore no surprise that it was also a time steeped in superstition and, successful, much celebration. Harvest celebrations pre-date Christianity, but it has always been seen as a very spiritual time to give thanks for the year's crop. Symbolic corn dolls, made out of the last sheath of the harvest, were placed on banquet tables when parishes had their huge feasts. The doll was then kept until the spring to ensure the continuation of a good crop next year. This custom began with Saxon farmers, who believed the last sheath contained the spirit of the The church festival that is the most common harvest corn. celebration still held today originated in Morwenstow, Cornwall in 1843, when Reverend Robert Hawker invited the parishioners of his church into his home to receive the Sacrament in "the bread of the new corn." Whether from the Divine, the elements or the mystical, all help was gratefully received. Now that most of us neither sow nor reap what we eat, it is almost impossible to imagine how crucial this time of year was in the calendar, but by knowing a little of the history and keeping these traditions alive we are honouring those who depended upon it.

At their most lavish the meal would brim with several meats, vegetables, puddings, tarts and ale, and would be accompanied by singing, drinking games and much reverie. One Shropshire tradition in the early 19th century was the arrival of the 'Old Sow' - two men dressed in sacks that were filled with prickly furze cuttings which barbed anyone they approached. That just left the gleaning, the act of collecting any leftover crops in the field which was carried out by the farm women. All of which was to be conducted by St Michael's Mass on the 29th September, the signifier for the end of harvest.

Quiet Corner:

Living Alone:

I live alone, Dear Lord stay at my side...In all my daily needs, please be my guide...Grant me good health, for that indeed I pray... to carry on my work from day to day... Keep pure my mind, my thoughts, my every deed...

Let me be kind and unselfish in my neighbour's need...Spare me from fire, from floods, malicious tongues... Then humbly, Lord, I pray, please hear my call...And when I'm feeling low or in despair...Light up my heart and help me in my prayer...I live alone, dear Lord, yet have no fear...Because I feel Your presence very near.

We wouldn't know God's faithfulness -, If we never had a seed, We wouldn't know His answers - , If we did not intercede. We wouldn't know God's promises - , If we chose not to believe; We wouldn't know His fullness,- If our hearts did not receive. We wouldn't know God's comforting,-If we never shed a tear; We wouldn't know His preciousness, -If we didn't have Him near. We wouldn't know God's victory, -If we never faced a test; We wouldn't know His peacefulness -, If He didn't give us rest. We wouldn't know God's mighty strength -If we were never weak, We wouldn't know His counsel,- If we failed to hear Him speak. We wouldn't know God's fruitfulness - If we had never grown; We wouldn't know His wondrous ways- If we laboured on our own.

(Psalm 25:4) (kindly contributed by Jenny Harvey)Thank You!

When God our Saviour revealed His kindness and love, He saved us, not because of the righteous things we have done, but because of His mercy.

He washed away our sins, giving us a new birth and new life through the Holy Spirit. He generously poured out the Spirit upo0n us through Jesus Christ our Saviour. (Titus 3:4-6)

They sinned and rebelled against Me, but I will forgive them and take away their quilt.(Jeremiah 33.8)

Our Villages.

They are just little villages, where all our dreams come true, Simple, quiet villages with true friendship running through. Streets of homely houses, with trees dotted each side Rolling lawns and gardens, are a source of joy and pride. There's a school and a couple of churches, a few shops here and there, The old church with its tower, standing, waiting there. There's warmth and happy living, in these villages old and sweet; There is peace and quiet comfort, you'll find quite hard to beat. No wonder when I'm travelling far, for these dear places I yearn; Though cities fair may beckon me, it's here I will return. Where there is no need to hurry, and the air is calm and clear, To these quiet little villages, my heart holds ever dear.

Good neighbours are the sunshine of the morning,

The comfort in the ordinary days,

Not the kind who are intrusive or demanding,

Just there to share your life in quiet ways.

Ready with a smile or friendly greeting,

A little gossip or some sweet surprises,

For there in lies the joy of daily living,

Good neighbours, near at hand when need arises

Let us pray

For Queen Elizabeth and her exceptional reign, her deep affection for her people, her lifelong desire to serve the common good, her humility and grace, hard work and dedication, we thank You, Living Lord.

We give You thanks that in Your life, she shaped her life; under Your sovereignty, she fashioned her reign; in Your loving heart, she found wisdom and peace.

Fillongley Show. Est' 1919

Sorry! Fillongley Show Postponed. The Fillongley Agricultural Society express our sincere condolences to the Royal Family and share our deepest sadness with the nation on the sad loss of our longest serving monarch, Queen Elizabeth II.

It is with the greatest regret that, despite our very best efforts, we are unable to continue to hold this year's annual show. With the nation in mourning and all resources being called to London and other venues around the country the postponement of the show is sadly beyond our control. We support the nation in this period of mourning.

God Save the King.

Can you help? We are looking for people to look after our Churchyard. Thank You to those who have been looking after a lot of the grounds over the last few weeks. We give thanks to those who are trying to keep the grass down. We realise it is a thankless job, but if any of you can spend a little time to help us keep the graveyard tidy, that would be wonderful. Thank You!

Astonishingly ,it took Handel only 24 days to write the Messiah oratorio – today perhaps the worlds most famous composition, performed thousands of times around the world. 'Hallelujah Chorus' starts with trumpets and timpani announce the beginning of the chorus, choir sings the words of Revelations, John returned again and again to the theme of the return of the resurrected Jesus to earth – where there would be great rejoicing with the sound of choirs(19-1-8)

The world will rejoice because Jesus will have defeated the powers of darkness and death and established a kingdom of peace.

One day, all the people will sing together in a magnificent choir proclaiming the majesty of Jesus and the blessing of His forever reign(7:9) Until then, we live, work, pray and wait in hope,

Come quickly, Jesus, to establish Your reign over the earth.

The gift of peace(Praying for the people of Ukraine)

Loving God,
We pray for the people of Ukraine,
for all those suffering or afraid,
that you will be close to them and protect them.
We pray for world leaders, for compassion,
strength and wisdom to guide their choices.
We pray for the world, that in this moment of crisis,
we may reach out in solidarity to our brothers and sisters in need.
May we walk in your ways so that peace and justice become a reality for the people of Ukraine and for all the world.
Amen.

When the Thomsons left and the Salts took over things didn't change very much they bought a lot of furniture that was in the house, and my mother. Considering Mum didn't do much cleaning at home, she did quite a good job for the Thomsons and the Salts were pleased to employ her as she came highly recommended. Perhaps she didn't like doing housework at home because she was doing it all day and so couldn't be bothered with her own place. A case of 'cobblers kids being the worst shod'.

The Salts were a rather different kettle of fish than the Thomsons. For a start they were a professional family, Mr. Salt being a chartered accountant and a partner in a large firm. I don't know whether Mrs. Salt had ever had a job or profession but she was very well spoken although rather haughty in her manner which could be off putting. She had been born without a hand which was a shock to us at first but we quickly got used to it and ceased to notice it. It didn't affect her life at all, she could do anything with one hand that the rest of us can do with two.

Like the Thompsons had her parents living with her. They were a charming old couple called Leonardt, although they anglicized their name and called themselves Leonard. His name was Otto and she Margarita.

Claire was her grandmother Grannie Rita to distinguish her from her paternal grandmother who was Grannie Mabel. The first time we met Claire was during the school holidays, and Mrs Salt had said we could play in the yard. The yard gate opened and a little figure appeared shyly round the gate. She was small and slight with brown straight hair and a brace on her teeth, a rather nondescript child, but she had an air about her that made me feel sorry for her. There was no need to feel sorry for her she had everything she needed but I felt that somehow she lacked affection and I am sure that was the problem. Her mother was a very austere sort of woman

And I never ever saw her put an arm around her daughter, our mother was free with her slaps but also free with hugs and cuddles so we always knew that no matter how angry she was with us at the end of the row, we would always get a 'love'. Most of the affection bestowed on Claire came from Grannie Rita, she was quite old to have a grandchild as young as Claire and the old lady doted on the child. Sometimes I was invited to tea when Mrs. Salt was out with Claire,

Grannie Rita and I had a dainty tea in the morning room and afterwards played card games like 'snap' and 'happy families'.

The little girl went to a convent school where she struggled, Mrs. Salt was quite indignant when I passed the scholarship to the High School. Mum sniffed and said she wondered why well off people always thought their children had the God-given right to a good brain. She got in eventually and made a career as an occupational therapist. When she was about nine or ten she longed for a horse and was given one for her birthday, she told my mother she was glad that now she had a horse she would smell 'horsey'. Fancy wanting to smell like a horse! But she was a nice little creature and once presented my mother, who had a bad back at the time, with a bottle of holy water to sprinkle over her aching limbs. I don't think Mum had much faith in such things and the water went down the sink.

For all the money the family must have had they didn't spend much of it on things to make house keeping easier. They had no washing machine and Mum had to boil tea-towels etc, in an old metal bread bin. That's more than she did at home. I have a horror of running out of clean towels and tea-towels and this stems from my early years when Mum sent out washing to the laundry. This was probably in the fifties because I can remember her washing when we lived in White House Cottage. She would gather everything up that could be washed and bundle it off to the laundry leaving us with perhaps one hand towel and one tea-towel to last a week. When the laundry came back we had linen in profusion and then it would disappear again back to the laundry. She was an intelligent woman so why she didn't split the linen into two halves I've never been able to find out. It was mortifying not to have a clean towel to take to school or to have visitors and have no teatowel to dry the dishes. Because of this I've always made sure I've got plenty of everything washed and dried, I can feel panicky of my stock of clean tea towels when they start to go down. Sometimes after the Salts came to Old farm, Mr. salt decided to start a pig and poultry farm probably to help his tax situation, and my father was asked if he wanted a job. He jumped at the chance and worked for him for many years.

Our Harvest Hymn:

Now Thank We All our God

Now thank we all our God,
With heart and hands and voices,
Who wondrous things has done,
In whom this world rejoices;
Who from our mothers' arms
Has blessed us on our way
With countless gifts of love,
And still is ours today.

O may this bounteous God
Through all our life be near us,
With ever joyful hearts
And blessed peace to cheer us;
And keep us still in grace,
And guide us when perplexed;
And free us from all ills,
In this world and the next

All praise and thanks to God
The Father now be given;
The Son, and him who reigns
With them in highest heaven;
The one eternal God,
Whom earth and heaven adore;
For thus it was, is now,
And shall be evermore.
